

PUBLIC SERVICE OPPORTUNITY
BUILDING INSPECTION BOARD OF APPEALS

Seeking qualified applicants for current vacancies.

Bring your technical experience to an important local safeguard. BIBA provides independent review of certain Building Official decisions and proposed alternate materials or construction methods. BIBA cannot waive code requirements or decide administrative matters outside its authority.

WHO SHOULD APPLY

- People qualified by experience and training in building construction or building service equipment.
- Relevant backgrounds may include architecture, engineering, code inspection, plan review, construction management, skilled trades, or structural, electrical, plumbing, and mechanical systems.
- A professional license is not required, but applicants should explain their direct technical experience or training.
- County employees may not serve as voting members.

WHAT MEMBERS DO

- Hear appeals involving the application or interpretation of technical building codes.
- Evaluate whether proposed alternate materials or methods provide equivalent or better performance and safety.
- Review technical evidence and issue written findings and decisions.
- Meet as needed when an appeal is filed or a meeting is called.

GENERAL INDUSTRY FAMILIARITY IS NOT ENOUGH ON ITS OWN

Applicants should provide a brief, specific summary of their relevant technical experience and training. A real estate license, business affiliation, family relationship, or general exposure to construction does not by itself establish the qualifications required for service.
